Royal Flying Doctor Service

RFDS Drought Wellbeing Service

Our Drought Wellbeing Service provides free of charge counselling and support to people living and working in remote rural areas impacted by drought and flood.

Our Mental Health Clinicians are specifically trained to assist people with a range of mental health effects arising from dealing with difficult times. They offer a confidential environment to express concerns and problem solve. Strategies are designed to help prevent and resolve a wide range of conditions such as depression, anxiety, sleep problems and post-traumatic stress reactions.

A Senior Mental Health Clinician from our Drought Wellbeing Service will be visiting Richmond and Hughenden regularly.
